Friday 15th September

Dear Parents,

It has been lovely to get back to school for our first full week this week - the children have looked very smart in their new uniforms and have seemed to enjoy the first week and a half back.

The week started this week with a whole school assembly to discuss our school rules and remind children of some of the more 'subtle' school rules we have - such as not wearing nail varnish at school, being in full uniform, no jewellery, bringing 'cards' in at your own risk, only eating fruit snacks at break time etc.

The children discussed our two key school rules

- Be safe
- Learn well

We had a really good assembly dissecting these two rules and thinking about what they really mean!

This year the class names are all linked to Famous Landmarks. Over the next week the school website will be updated with all the class names, logos, jingles and mottos - so keep your eyes out for them.

This week we have said good bye to Mrs Bull who left school yesterday to start her maternity leave. We will keep you posted on any news of Baby Bull arriving!

The term has started with the news that we have scored highly (90%) on our Health and Safety audit. We have a few small items to address which we are doing already. We have also been awarded a Silver Accreditation for our Geography curriculum. Again we are really pleased that The Geographical Association recognises the quality of our curriculum. A great way to start the year!

Thank you to all parents who have returned the photograph permission forms, First Aid forms etc. If you have not managed to get yours handed in yet please do so on Monday!
Thank you.

Have a good weekend,

Aly
